FACE IT

James 1:2-3 says, "Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance." We face many challenges in those areas that comprise the FACES acronym: Faith, Academics, Character, Experience, Service. This living acronym mirrors the life of this university. Trevecca is not merely made up of buildings and materials things. It is made up of people. Each and every day we notice the different expressions on person's faces as they face the challenges of every day life. Life always challenges our expectations, and so we join together and FACE IT.

Prologue from the President

Do you have a facebook account? If not, welcome to a shrinking world. I currently have 158 facebook friends, and my list is growing every day. But I have a beef with facebook. There is no flesh involved. It is an electronic media connection between real, live, breathing humans. You can't touch through facebook, or cry, or see the body language behind the words. It's limited.

But the experience you are about to behold in this book isn't. These things happened on the hilltop, and we have the pictures to help us remember the realities of people sharing life together.

In the Christian family, we recall that our scriptures often speak of "being in the presence of God." Did you know that the actual expression is "before the face of God"? That's where we live. Before the face of God. Right under the nose of God. In front of the eyes of God. Receiving the breath of God. That's where we do our faith, form our character, live our experiences, and offer our service— before the face of God.

And what does God look like? In the words of one child, Jesus is the best picture God ever got took. I couldn't agree more. Enjoy.

Dan Boone

Dedication

Steven A. Harris

Associate Provost for Student Development

Steve Harris became part of Trevecca in 1979. During these 29 years, he has served as director of retention, tennis coach, and dean of student development, and most recently as associate provost for student development.

Charged with the responsibility of helping students adapt to and cooperate with those policies that are intended to provide structure for the University community, he interacts daily with students who have chosen to be on one side or the other of those policies. Sometimes the interactions are positive; sometimes they are less than positive. Always he maintains his signature smile and caring demeanor.

He has the ability to love persons, regardless of their choices or behaviors. Often students return to campus and approach Dean Harris apologetically for something they did while a student at Trevecca; he never seems to remember why they were in trouble but is always excited to hear their stories and to see how God is working in their lives.

People who know Dean Harris describe him this way: "He has the passion of a coach, the heart of a father, and a true compassion for students."

Dean Harris daily demonstrates that the call of his life is to serve God and that he loves fulfilling that call at the University and with its students. His daily life at Trevecca is living evidence of the truth of his favorite Bible passage, Isaiah 40:30-31: "Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall; but those who hope in the Lord will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles: they will run and not grow weary; they will walk and not be faint."

It is with deep appreciation, that the 2008 Darda is dedicated to Steve Harris.

Welcome Week

Opportunity to meet new faces

During Welcome Week 2007 students were given the chance to enjoy some of the most interactive fellowship activities on campus. It was a time to enjoy others and get to know people on a more relational level. Many exciting events were available to students during the week, including new activities that allowed participants to meet freshmen and transfers and to recall memories from years past with old friends. New students had the opportunity to become connected through food, games, and common interests. Welcome Week 2007 was a great success at reaching the goal of making student friendships and forming a community of people who need and want to interact with each other.

"Celebrity Skate Night was a great opportunity to show my appreciation to my favorite lifeguard in history, David Hasselhoff."

Welcome Week

Best days of your life

When students think about returning to TNU, the first thing that comes to mind are the fun-filled days of Welcome Week. The activities at Welcome Week bring back memories of old friends and the opportunity to make new friends. Welcome Week also gives students the opportunity to dress up like a celebrity, get soaking wet on a slip-n-slide, party at the luau, and eat ice cream sundaes at the Well. During this time of developing new relationships, students are blessed with the advantage of having fun without the pressure of major assignments and classwork that would otherwise grasp their attention. With the variety of events, everyone has a chance to have fun and meet new friends. These are the best days of our lives.

"Trojan Idol was a huge hit this year. I laughed, I cried...I heard John Patterson sing 'Roxanne.' Can life get any better than that?"

The Friday night judges showed their incredible understanding of music talent.

Trojan Idol

Many performances: One Idol

For the fifth consecutive year the Trojan Idol contestants captivated their audience with talent and poise. For two nights Benson Auditorium was filled with extreme energy from the contestants' performances and the amazed audience. As the viewers cheered for their favorite contestants, it was obvious that the voting would not be simple. Tuesday night started with ten talented students, a group that eventually diminished to two during the Friday finale. John Patterson and Farouk Jr. stunned the crowd and advanced to the final round. Even though all the contestants sang wonderfully, Farouk Jr. won the crown as the 2007 Trojan Idol.

Red, White, Blue opened with a spectacular show of original songs and great melodies.

Andy Davis made a stunning guest appearance for his good friend Nathan Angelo.

Students have the opportunity to relax and enjoy music and friends at The Hub Concert.

Nathan Angelo was an awesome performer, and all guests enjoyed his lyrics and rythm.

Concerts

Stressed? Relax & listen.

When students are having a hard time reaching deadlines and must take a break for the sake of sanity, there is usually an enjoyable concert going on to relieve some study tension. Many fantastic concerts were presented for students and anyone else looking for easy listening and great conversations. TNU is blessed with connections to willing and exceptional artists that love performing and sharing their music with others. Even our own students love sharing thier musical talents with an audience, and have many opportunities to do so. Despite all stress and deadlines, campus concerts are an escape for anyone wanting to enjoy the present time and create future memories. So if your stressed, just relax and listen to the music provided.

Many individuals on campus are in the single status. During Courtship Week, the Student Government attempts to change those Facebook status icons. Every student lives with the talk about the latest couple and how they got together. If the relationship is "serious," it might just reach the Facebook profile status. Courtship Week 2007 was filled with fun activities set up for singles, groups, or couples to attend and have fun. The following list shows the variety of activities that were set-up for student enjoyment: the Hub Concert, Corn Maze, Singled Out game show, and of course T.W.I.R.P. (Trevecca Women in Rapid Pursuit). Everyone enjoyed the week and the activities this year.

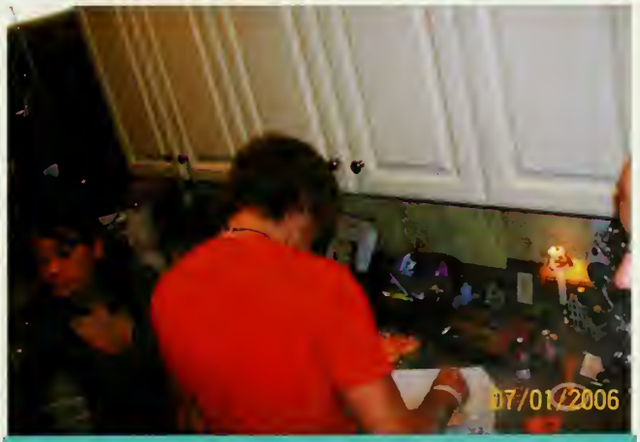
Courtship Week

Finding that special someone

Students took every opportunity to take pictures and make lasting memories at each event such as the corn maze.

Some students chose to participate in the week's events together as a group for fun instead of pairing off in couples.

On Friday night of Courtship Week a group of students traveled together to the corn maze. It was easier for some than others to find their way out.



The very last day of Courtship Week was TWIRP Day. On this day couples planned activities of their choice, such as baking cookies or going out to dinner.

Homecoming

Experiences that create lifetime memories

Homecoming on the Hill brings the past, present, and proposed future to TNU at one incredible time. The activities that participants experience create some of the best memories, ones that will not be forgotten. Whether it is dining with peers at a banquet or screaming for the Trevecca Trojans, everyone has a place to show his or her pride in the purple and white. All who are involved see the community of friendship shared between students, faculty, and alumni. During these special days, spectators notice what it really means to live in the Trevecca Community and how supporting TNU brings everyone closer.

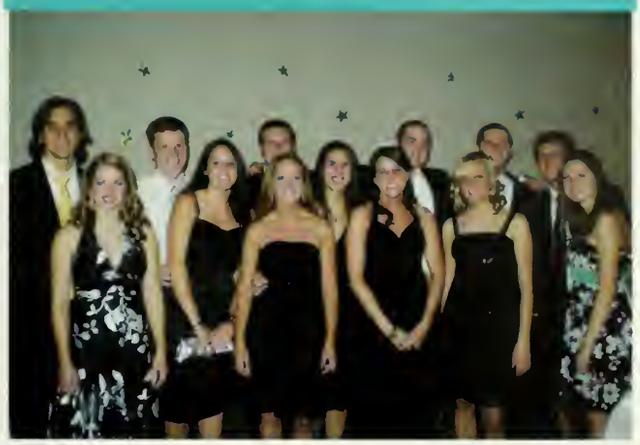
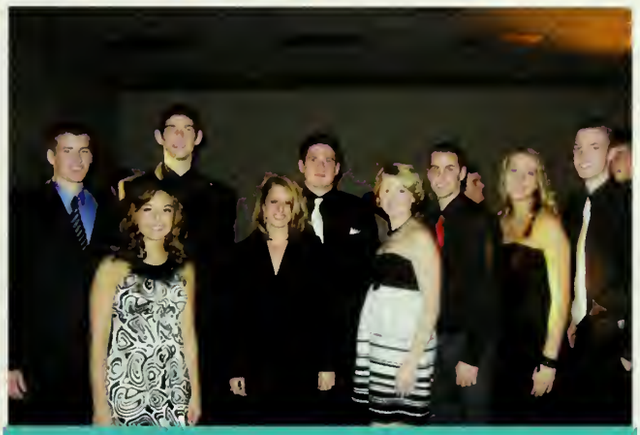
The banquet was a time to sit in style and enjoy each others company.



The setting at the Homecoming Banquet was great for a plethora of pictures.



The snacks, drinks, and desserts satisfied the guests and brought thier smiles out.

Homecoming

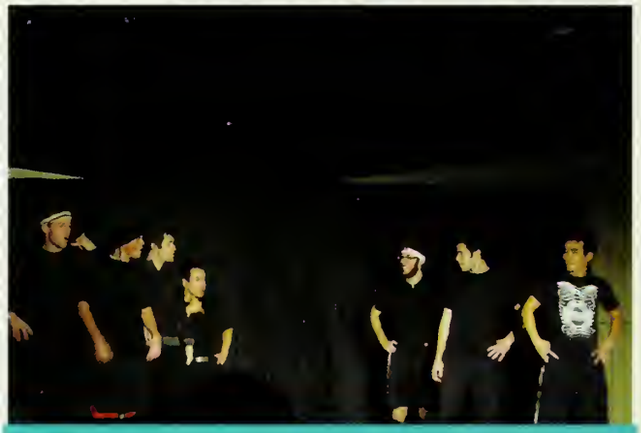
Experiences that create lifetime memories

As homecoming crept closer students prepared for one of the most anticipated activities of the semester. The homecoming banquet is an annual event where students are able to dine together in a semi-formal enviroment. The large difference in this years' banquet compared to previous banquets' was that a main entre was served in conjunction with the beloved deserts. Students showed up looking their best and were ready to mingle and dine with peers. The Homecoming court was also introduced, and students were able to learn more about their Homecoming court represenatives.

With all the future activities to come, Homecoming started out with a filling portion and proved to never stop satifying the hunger from students, faculty, and alumni.

Ben Wheat shocks the audience with incredible magic tricks using a deck of cards.

After the fashion walk, the men were asked questions by our two hosts.



The competitors open the show with a group presentation of recent music hits.

Hosts Scott Stine and Doug Lane were just as hysterical as the men competing for the crown.

Mr. TNU

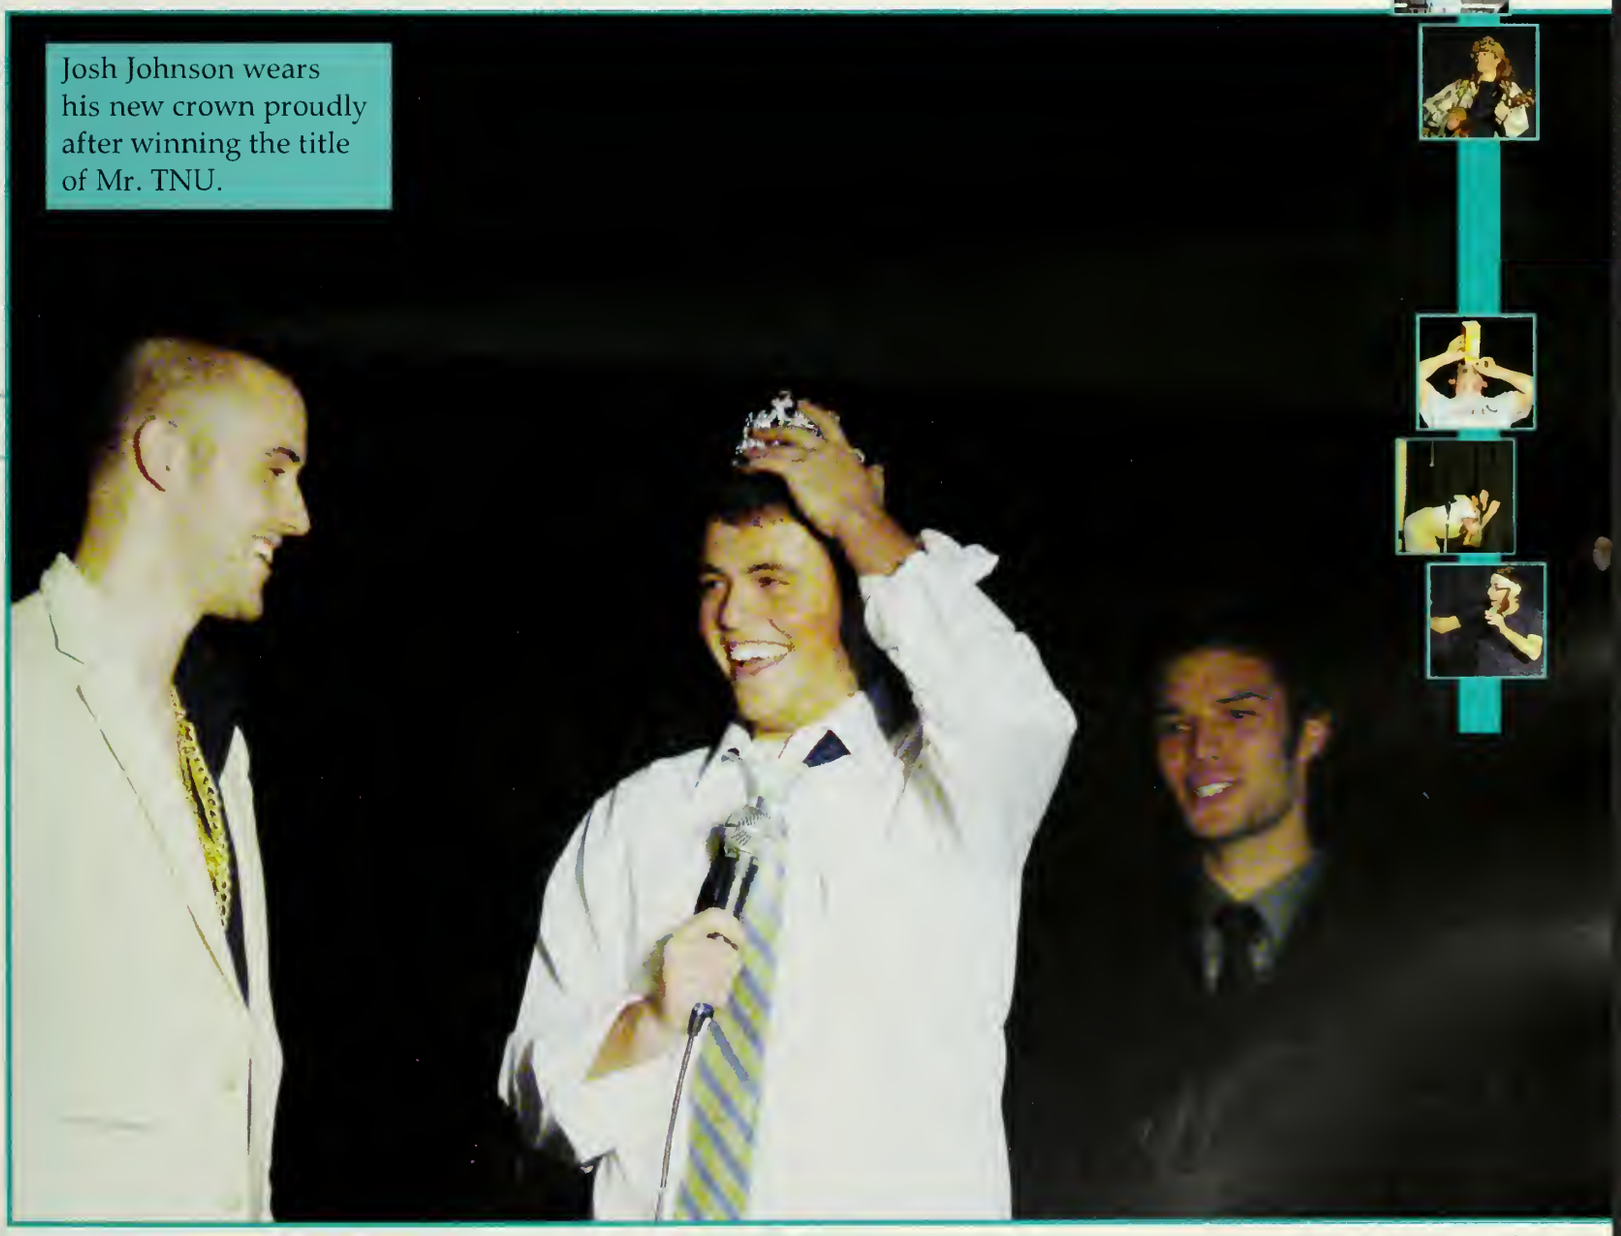
The competition remains fierce

Mr. TNU is the only event that is exclusively for male students only, hence the name. This competition is usually packed with hilarious segments and skits. The contestants have to perform in multiple events and are encouraged to make up humorous skits for the audience and judges. This year the contestants battled in the categories of dance, impromptu, Bible characters, talent, modeling, and question and answer. Many of the contestants were able to execute these categories with great energy. Some of the talents exhibited were magic, karate, eating a pineapple, balancing on an indo board while drinking buttermilk, and singing a duet. The winner of Mr. TNU 2008 was senior Josh Johnson. His ability to remain funny and active in the competition resulted in his receiving more votes and an awesome victory.

"Balancing on an indo board while drinking buttermilk wasn't easy. Don't act like you're not impressed."
Coulton Main

"The duet between Josh and me was my favorite part. The song set my spirit free."
Brian Johnson

Josh Johnson wears his new crown proudly after winning the title of Mr. TNU.



"I had a great time working with all the people involved in FNL. My scenes were fun, and I had an awesome time making people laugh."
Kaley Ward

"This was the final performance from the classic group Dance Tsunami. 'Colors of the Wind' was the highlight of their dancing career."
Drew Vinson

Professor Nate Kerr hosted the event. His humor kept the audience laughing throughout FNL.

Cassie Hamilton played a hyper character named Kaitlyn, who can't sit still.

Kevin Whitsett and Josh Sinclair performed their hip/hop song "Get Yo Myspace On."

Dustin Moon danced his rendition of the famous Evolution of Dance.

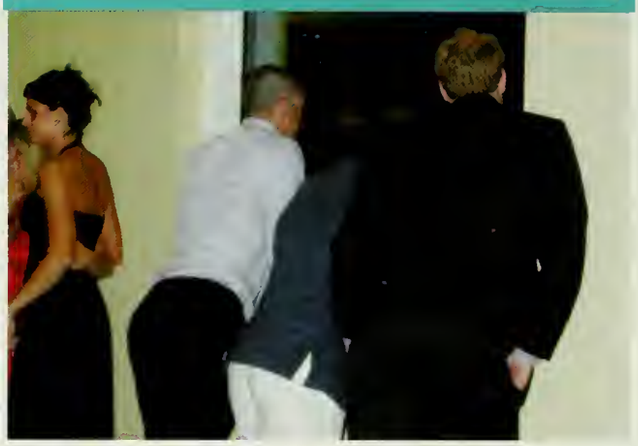
Friday Night Live

Live from Nashville. . . it's Friday Night

Friday Night Live is an awesome event that incorporates skits, dance, videos, and just plain hysterical dialogue. FNL gives the student body a chance to laugh a lot and show just how funny and creative our fellow peers are. This year the host of the show was Trevecca's own religion and philosophy professor, Nate Kerr. His humorous adlibs and great personality gave the night an atmosphere of fun and enjoyment. The audience enjoyed skits, including High School Musical, "Weekend Update," "The Evolution of Dance," and a musical performance by Trojan Idol Farouk Jr. The entire flow of Friday Night Live was incredibly professional this year with high-definition videos and an enormous background screen with amazing detail. Overall, FNL was done with the utmost precision and quality with great results. The added five inches of snow that fell during FNL did not hurt the fun factor either.

Groups of peers began to settle into their tables and wait for others to arrive.

These friends enjoyed the view from one of the tallest buildings in Nashville.



Participants enjoyed the meal from Buca di Beppo.

Talking to friends was a big part of the evening.

Jr.-Sr. Banquet

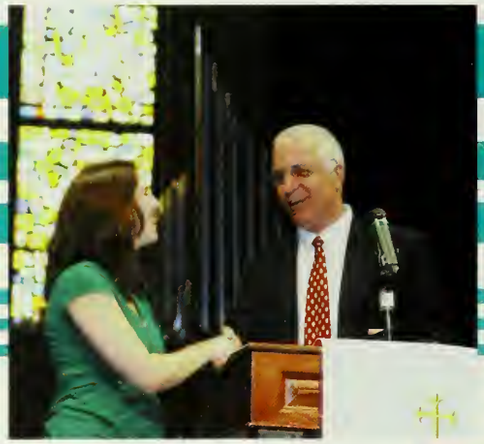
Good food + good friends = great night

The opportunity to dress formally and have fellowship with great company while enjoying food and music is guaranteed to be a highly attended and remembered event. The mere thought of camera hysteria and the blinding lights of cameras at neighboring tables even smells like a formal event on Trevecca's campus. Everyone enjoys the atmosphere of the Junior/Senior Banquet. Looking their best, students savored an evening atop the AT&T "Batman" Building. The pondering of what it would look like from the top stopped when the banqueters actually were able to experience the view. The classmen were entertained by a live band and a magician. The night was a huge success, and the participants had a great time with friends.

"I had such a memorable time. The view from the building was breath-taking."
Allie Gray

"It was great to see everybody at the banquet. I enjoyed the food and the entertainment."
Tyler Carpenter

The building was a great enviroment for the banquet, and excitment was in the air.



"As the '07-'08 yearbook editor, I was proud to announce that the yearbook would be dedicated to Steve Harris."
Rachel Brenneman

"Receiving one of the two 2008 Leadership Awards was a thrill for me."
Danielle Queener

Who's Who recipients for 2008

RA of the Year Award was presented to Olivia Ezell from Johnson Hall for her outstanding performance throughout the year.

Brandon Shattuck was awarded with the Jazz Ensemble Award from David Diehl.

Nate Hill was awarded Outstanding Junior Award by Greg Runyan from the School of Business.

Philip Hines and Jason Herndon received Biology awards.

All-School Awards

Strive for Excellence

All School Awards Chapel is held at the end of every year. It gives professors and faculty the opportunity to present superior students with recognition for their work throughout the year. Students are always interested to learn who wins these awards and to support the winners with cheers. A feeling of intensity and anticipation fills the chapel. All departments presented awards to students who have excelled in class and participated in extra activities. Other awards were Who's Who, Research Symposium Awards, L.E.A.D, and Student Assistant Award. The ceremony was a capstone conclusion to the school year.

107th Commencement

Unexpected blue skies on graduation day

On Saturday May 3, 2008, Trevecca's 107th commencement took place, delayed 30 minutes because of the rain. Despite thunderstorms during the night, the day turned out to be beautiful. More than 6,000 people were in attendance to see 794 students receive their diplomas. Randy Carden, professor of psychology, delivered the challenge to the students. Responses were given by Brian Johnson, senior class president; Jeff Hart of the MHR Program; and Lindsay-Blair Wilkinson from the graduate program. Robert Broadbooks, chairperson of Trevecca's board of trustees, offered his congratulations to the graduating class. After the students received their diplomas, the Citizenship Award was presented to Tommy Byler. Each year this award is given to a graduating senior who has rendered outstanding service to the school. Two honorary degress were awarded at the end of the ceremony. An honorary doctor of letters degree was presented to Carl L. Carlson and an honorary doctor of divinity degree was presented to Orville W. Jenkins, Jr.

Every Tuesday and Thursday students make their way to Trevecca Community Church for Koinonia, the worship and fellowship Chapel.

Chapel

Living in the Neighborhood

Twice a week students made their way down the hill of Trevecca to the church on the edge of its campus. Tuesday and Thursday were the most popular Chapel days, but because of students' busy schedules, these Chapels weren't the only ones offered. Wednesday mornings in Benson Auditorium, another chapel was held. Named Kerygma, the Greek word meaning "message" or "proclamation," the service focused on scripture and communion and was available all semester. There was also Didache, five Monday-night Chapels that were centered around discipleship and instruction. Students could also earn chapel credit throughout the semester. A Prayer Labyrinth and Spiritual Renewal Services were held during the fall, and Founder's Day Chapel during Homecoming, was one more special type of Chapel service.

"Living in the Neighborhood" was the theme introduced at the beginning of the year. Students were encouraged to invest in and become apart of the community, instead of just living in it. This theme brought in many interesting speakers and messages, which left a lasting impression on the University.

King's Kids

Faces of the Napier Community

Bright blue shirts with bold white words proclaiming King's Kids can be seen everywhere on Trevecca's campus. Every Tuesday night at 6:30, the members of King's Kids along with members of Trevecca Community Church pick up children from the Napier neighborhood and bring them back to the TCC. There they have a VBS-like program with singing, story time, crafts, snacks, and other activities with lessons about God. The students and helpers volunteer their time and are assigned different age groups to help. They also reach out into the homes of the children. Every night the children are given a God's Word sticker, which they wear home. They also take home coloring sheets and crafts, so that their parents are exposed to what they are learning in the program. This program led students to a deeper understanding of the community that Trevecca is a part of and touch the people in the neighborhood around them who need to be shown the love of God.

Service Projects

Helping out "In the Neighborhood"

Trevecca students are always excited at an opportunity to give back to the community, and with this year's "In the Neighborhood" focus, many students were ready to lend a hand to those in need. The first all-school project of the year was a spa day for the women at Phases, a half-way house in Nashville. Trevecca girls treated the women to a day of luxury while remodeling was done on their facilities. The students also teamed up with Habitat for Humanity to build a house for Beatrice Bender, who was displaced after Hurricane Katrina. Beatrice was happy to have a house once again and was an inspiration to the student volunteers.

Merge & Small Groups

A closer look at God

For new students Merge is a time to meet and get to know the people beside whom they are now living. For the returning students, it provides an opportunity to reconnect with old friends. But everyone is involved in spiritual deepening. Merge is a group of small Bible study groups all over campus that were created last year and met with such success that leaders decided to revive it this year. Groups meet weekly with a student leader and pick specific passages and have discussion and fellowship. Some also have service projects. Rachel Swann explained the value of Merge: "It is a great way to get to know the people you come in contact with and learn from each other's experiences." Some meet in the dorms while others are held in the apartments. The smaller groups help the students to connect with each other on a deeper level and continue their journey with God.

Angel Tree

Bringing Christmas to those in need

Christmas time is hard for many families, and Trevecca students sought to brighten the Christmas season for 300 children through Angel Tree, an organization that sponsors children of prisoners in order to give the children a better holiday than they could have wished for.

On December 1 the students, faculty, and staff, along with visiting guests, met in Moore Gymnasium to celebrate with the children and their families. They enjoyed pizza, while exchanging gifts and enjoying music provided by Trevecca's two PR groups, Refuge and EverPraise. The gift of the Christmas story was shared and the true meaning of Christmas was presented to the children and their families. With gift donations from students, faculty, staff, and others, student leaders knew that their "angels" would receive Christmas presents.

TAG Team

Building Relationships with Poland

Every summer Trevecca students are given the opportunity to travel and minister in different countries through Trevecca Around the Globe, otherwise known as TAG. This past summer students were able to help at Upwards Basketball, a children's basketball program in Gdansk, Poland. They played with the children and watched their games, visited an elementary school there and read to the kindergarteners, toured Gdansk, and took an eight-hour train ride to Krakow. During the two weeks they were there, they built many relationships, not only with the children they helped but also Trevecca's adopted missionaries, Dawid and Samona Berdowski, who have just recently started a Church of the Nazarene in Gdansk. Amber Bledsoe explained the purpose of this trip, "This trip was mainly to build relationships with the people in Poland."

Youth In Mission

Crossing the ocean to serve

Youth in Mission is a ministry that handpicks students and sends them around the world to serve and witness in other less fortunate countries. Some would think it is hard to find God in places of extreme poverty and violence, but those who are sent find that their eyes are opened to a deeper and more fulfilling experience of worship and service.

This past summer three Trevecca students were sent to Goma, Democratic Republic of Congo, in Africa. Jonathan Hopper, Elizabeth Price, and Erin Perry along with Matt West, a student at Southern Nazarene, taught English to a group of children for two months, while also holding seminars on AIDS and leading Sunday school. They lived with the people there. Erin said, "I had never seen poverty like that before where children walked the streets, shoeless, with no parents. Where the military and UN roamed everywhere with their exposed machine guns, to keep the people in order." But in spite of their austere circumstances, the people in Goma displayed a spirit and love for God that humbled and amazed the Trevecca students.

Favorite TNU Memory: Meeting new friends and knowing that those friendships will last a lifetime

Christopher Anderson

Major: Music business with an emphasis in vocal performance
Hometown: Ooltewah, Tennessee
Activities/Positions at TNU: Madrigalians, Madrigalians president, member of PR group, Rapunzel's Prince in Into the Woods
Future Plans: My life has been and probably always will be guided by those things that I am passionate about. I have always loved and expressed myself through music and visual art. I also have come to appreciate the wisdom that can come from looking back to past events and its relevance to current situations. My future will probably consist of some creative combination of these things. What specifically? I have no idea. I am holding on to the fact that your biggest dreams, wildest ambitions, and most impossible aspirations are never as great as God's master plan for you.
Favorite TNU Memory: Some of my favorite memories at Trevecca were the basketball games— specifically when Cumberland happened to be the other team.

Engagement parties faced and conquered

Both of my roommates were in serious relationships when we entered our senior year,and so I figured that only time would tell when they would get engaged. But I would have never guessed that we would be celebrating one after the other in a short time. On September 28, I found out that Libby Dennis would get engaged the next day, and Ashlea Phillips and I were trying to figure out how to get everybody together for a surprise party. We made dozens of phone calls and bought cake and all necessities to throw a party that weekend. We had a blast and Libby was very surprised. One week later I find out that Ashlea got engaged during fall break. So Libby and I worked out a plan to throw a party. After one, I knew what we needed and what to look for. But knowing our tradition, Ashlea kind of knew that it would be happening soon, so we waited for another week to surprise her. She was so surprised that she jumped back against the door and slammed it right into Libby's face. Dishes over dishes were piled in our kitchen, and I was glad we accomplished all our parties—until four weeks later Ben Birdwell came up to me and told me that he is going to propose to my best friend, Kimbre. Of course we needed to plan an engagement party. Now with Facebook you can invite all your friends, and little did I know that he literally invited all of his friends. The number was in the 200s! My poor little college apartment. We planned for the maximum, but luckily we had a crowd of 30 to 40 people, an amazing group to fit in a small Redford apartment. We had a wonderful time; however, throwing parties can be very exhausting, and we are glad the engagement season is over... for now.

Facing the crowd

Those who know me know how much I love to work in the area of music and theater, a great tool in communication and outreach. When a production begins, it is not much more than a rough collection of ideas and fractured concepts. In time a director provides guidance and delegates responsibilities, the cast becomes a collection of many working toward a common goal, and eventually ta-da! You have the finished product! That is exactly how I see our lives. We have a director, and he has a purpose for each of us. Some are technicians, costumers, and stage crafters. Some are actors. There is a master plan that, in time, becomes relevant to each of us, and we must each do our part to create the desired outcome of the director. The curtain rises, and we each take a deep breath and step into the light; our time has come.

Facing dreams come true

Hi, I'm Lilian. I'm originally from Kenya, Africa, but moved to Nashville to play on the Trevecca women's soccer team. When I graduated from high school, my dream was to get an education in a Christian university somewhere. At that moment that dream seemed far from reality, but I believed that some day and somehow God would open that door for me and make that dream come true. One of the many loves in my life is obviously soccer. Before coming to Nashville, I worked at a youth sports association where I taught kids how to play soccer. This job allowed me to reach out to the kids in the neighborhoods around where I lived and change how they looked at life through sports. After years of playing soccer in Kenya, I received an email from one of the soccer coaches here at Trevecca. Coming here has been one of life's greatest accomplishments and blessings. My experience as a whole here at Trevecca has been life changing. It has been such a privilege to gain so many relationships while being here. The Christlike love through the different people I encounter on a daily basis has touched my life in so many ways. The TNU soccer team and Trevecca have become a parcel of my life. The Christian experiences and influences will always be there in my heart as a reminder of who I am as a person.

Faces of mischief

It was late one night and a group of girls weren't quite ready to go to bed yet. While we were thinking of all the things we could do in Nashville, we were reminded of how we had no money and not a lot of time. We really wanted to swim, but the pool wasn't open. So where else did we decide to dive in? The cascades of course. We came to find out that the fountain part of the cascades is deeper than we had thought, the water was colder than we had anticipated, there were more leaves and twigs than water, and there is no possible way to slide from the top fountain down to the bottom fountain without severely bruising our. . . well you know. Since all of these factors hadn't been fully thought out, we had no way of drying ourselves off, and we weren't going to go back to our rooms dripping wet. So we decided to cruise the back streets of Trevecca and air dry! (It was quite cold. Wasn't it, girls?) After this was done, we quietly went back to our rooms and swore it'd be our little secret. But I guess now everyone knows! However, I didn't tell any names, girls; so it's all good!

Facing amusement

One of the best times this year for me was Celebrity Skate Night. A group of friends and I decided to dress up as characters from The Wizard of Oz for the event. Getting ready was quite a sight. Thrift store shopping, spray paint, scissors, tape, string, ribbons, poster board, and a stuffed "dog" was all thrown in the mix. The end result was pretty much amazing, and in my opinion we were the best ones there. After a grand appearance and a photo shoot, the night ended with a trip to the infamous IHOP where people stared in awe and jealousy I am sure. It was also there that we lost track of time and accidentally kept one of our friends out past her curfew. SORRY GIRL!! Oh, and two tips for all you future tin men; first of all, cardboard is very hard to walk in, go down or up steps in, and really hard to get in and out of a car with. Secondly, oil funnels make the best hats!!!

Facing freedom

For Spring Break my freshman year, a group of us went down to Destin, Florida. It was the first time any of us had really done anything on our own as far as planning and leading a trip without our parents. Things weren't very good from the get-go in Destin, and more and more tension began to build between the guys and the girls. So all five of us guys, Chad and Chris Hill, Daniel Tardy, Jason Herndon, and myself, left Destin for one evening and went to Panama City just to get away. Since I grew up in Nashville and had gone to college in Nashville, it was one of my first memorable moments of truly feeling free and really enjoying being "one of the guys."

Spontaneity on our faces

Road trips—to say they are fun would be an understatement. Graduation '07 had just ended, and the summer was creeping upon us. Will Knowles, Danielle Queener, Matt Taylor, and I had decided to buy TV dinners and watch Garden State in the SGA suite. As we ate, we listened to Andy Davis sing about a spur-of-the-moment escape to the beach with some girl ("Spontaneous"). We looked at each other. An idea hit all of us at the same time. No less than thirty minutes later, we had piled into Will's Previa, and some eight hours later, we caught the sunrise on the beach of Dauphin Island, Alabama. After a quick nap on the beach and breakfast, we were on our way back to Nashville. It was totally worth it, and we have Facebook pictures to prove it.

Facing Smitty

Nashville, Music city U.S.A., a melting pot for all musical genres. Concerts occur across the many venues within the city at any given time. Pick the right shows, and there are musical stars amongst the crowd. It is a fairly exciting encounter, and I can now say I have become accustomed to experiencing someone's show and then bumping into that same person at a show the very next night. There was a time, however, when I was not able to play it cool around celebrities or mainly one celebrity in particular. One fall evening I went with some friends to take in the glorious performance of Mutemath at City Hall. Because of Mutemath's splendor, many people were there to enjoy the concert. During one of the opening band's sets, I was standing in the back of the crowd with some friends just hanging out and keeping it real. Who was standing in front of us, only a few feet away but the Christian music legend Michael W. Smith. I was beside myself in excitement because I had grown up singing Smitty's songs and realized how he had paved the way for so much music today. Instead of keeping my excitement to myself, with fists clenched and eyes shut, I burst into a chorus singing "and a friend's a friend forever, if the Lord's the Lord of them..." With the resounding last note I opened my eyes and realized Michael W. Smith had turned around and was staring right at me. Realizing what I doofus I was, I hid behind Brian Johnson so I might be concealed. And that's how I had my most embarrassing moment with Michael W. Smith.

The face of surprise

Hiding in that cramped space between a tomato plant and a bean plant, I learned for the first time what it's like to wait patiently. It was a chilly night in November, and some friends and I decided to throw a surprise birthday party for a mutual friend. We all gathered in the greenhouse behind Greathouse and waited patiently for the person to arrive. With every shadow passing by, we would quickly quit talking, only to find out it was a false alarm. It seemed like forever before our friend arrived. Finally, after he arrived we jumped out from behind the plants and startled him. Having created a garden on campus this past summer, we were all aware of our friend's green thumb. Likewise, we created a cake in the shape of a tomato in order to celebrate his 21st birthday. Later, we went to Jernigan to eat the cake and ice cream. While we were there, some people started smearing cake all over their faces. It was really fun to watch, and I have pictures to prove it!

Faces of entertainment

The Cumberland game was one of the most memorable events I attended this year. It was really intense because at first I really thought the guys were going to lose the game mainly because we were down by so much. The fans, dressed in all white for the big white-out game, were on the edge of their seats, cheering their team on. It was really crazy because it was a game that everyone cared about, and you could definitely tell. By the end of the game, Trevecca was victorious and everyone from Trevecca's side was extremely excited.

After the game I also attended the Shakespeare play produced by Trevecca's drama department. I thought it was a great play! I really believe it was worth my time because the cast put a lot of time and effort into the play, and I believe it was one of the best plays I have seen here.

Facing a panorama from Sunset Rock

This past year a few friends from Trevecca and I made a day trip to Sparta, Tennessee, home of sunset rock. Led by Will Knowles, we made a little climb that revealed a breathtaking view of Tennessee. Although normally you get a view of the sunset over the land, we went on a somewhat rainy day. It did not matter, though, because we were fortunate enough to have an amazing view of the land that was overcast with fog. After the climb we made it back to town in time to see the Christmas parade and eat dinner. The day ended with another visit to the rock before we headed back home.

Face the consequence

Late one night I was sitting in my bed trying to go to sleep but couldn't because Cassie was watching TV extremely late. Then for no apparent reason she starts digging in her closet. Before I realize, she has put on tap shoes, gets on top of my desk, and does a dance routine obviously practiced frequently. I'm sitting there like, seriously, is this happening? And then we got a noise violation because it was three in the morning.

Gundi in my face

Ok, so I was sitting in the caf one day, as I usually do, and Michelle Osbourne walked up with Dr. Philip's son, Josiah. Because I am so cool with kids, he instantly liked me, and we started joking around and having a great time. I actually skipped Jooly Philip's World Lit. class to continue playing with Josiah. After a while he wanted to teach me the only Hindu word that he knew, which was gundi. He wouldn't tell me what it was; he only started pointing at everyone's behind in the caf. I quickly figured out what the word meant, and we had a good time, laughing and pointing at everbody's gundi for the rest of lunch. I walked away that day feeling like I had made a friend who was totally on my level and I could really relate to. Thanks, Josiah Philip!

Facing loss

In these last several weeks, I have had this thirst that nothing seems to quench, no matter what I do. After withdrawing from Trevecca and coming home rather early this winter, I spent plenty of time reflecting on the two semesters I'd spent living in Nashville, Tennessee. One thing I have seen in my time at TNU is that everyone seems to live faithfully by the teachings of Paul, when he writes, "You, my brothers, were called to be free. But do not use your freedom to indulge the sinful nature; rather, serve one another in love" (Galatians 5:13).

From the administration, to professors, to staff, to students, everybody just gets it, showing a selfless agape love to those around them. I didn't really know what I was missing until I first came to Trevecca, and having to leave unexpectedly in the middle of the semester caused me realize how much I have enjoyed my time here. At any other school, I don't think I would have had the experience that I did when I had to go to the hospital for an emergency surgery in February 2008. I found that I was not alone when I was lying in my hospital bed the night before my procedure—all of my suitemates stuffed into the cramped room made the whole experience much more enjoyable, even though we were probably breaking every fire code in the book by keeping so many people in the room.

I can't explain it, but I felt a very real sense of peace over the next couple days, as I seemed to have visitors from TNU all the time coming to pray, hang out, and sometimes, just eat some SATCO.

Upon my return to Trevecca the next Monday, I was greeted by dozens of hugs from fellow men from Benson and a by banner on the overhang, saying "Welcome Home, Kyle!" Getting back on campus, I felt the purest and most sincere joy. After getting settled back in, I came to the realization that I only had one more night at TNU this semester, and there was so much I wanted to do. My suitemates and I watched our favorite TV show—American Gladiators—one last time. We met up with a bunch of people over in the Hub, spent what was left of my credit, and just fellowshipped together, remembering the fun I'd had over the last year. I will never forget the times that we had that night!

Leaving Trevecca to go back to Raleigh, North Carolina, the next morning was a very bittersweet moment for me, but I'm feeling pretty sure that I'll be coming back home at TNU for another awesome year this fall!

To all who visited me in the hospital and to all those who kept me in their prayers, a HUGE thank you for helping to make this time far more bearable for me.

Game Face

When my friend and I were broadcasting a church service from the radio station on Trevecca's campus, my bored friend decided to play a game on one of the computers in the broadcasting studio. Later a man who was listening to that church service called. He was laughing hysterically and said that he could not stop listening to that program because he kept hearing bombing and popping noises at the exact same time the pastor was saying something important. It turns out that the game my friend was playing was making noises that were airing along with the pastor speaking.

Facing the challenge

It was a calm, cool night as I walked toward my room in Benson. Thinking about a night of relaxation and ready to put my key in the door, I noticed a gang of students. As the sea of students parted somewhat, I saw a clear, glistening material wall to wall–packaging tape, stretched as tightly as human hands could stretch it! It was begging to be broken.

As the crowd chanted his name, a 250-pound student, dressed only in his boxers and shoes, stepped forward and moved to the end of the hall. With phone cameras ready, the crowd began the countdown, and the student took off with full force. When he broke through the tape, we heard a small explosion! He was knocked off balance but not before he almost took out a water fountain. Once the laughter and shock of amazement subsided, I headed back to my door, laughed to myself, and said, "Only in Benson."

Thrill facers

My favorite TNU moment would have to be when my friends and I were watching Texas Chainsaw Massacre one Friday night. If I remember correctly, it was me, Brett, Kyle, Andrew and Remington all piled up in my room, watching this horror movie that none of us had ever seen before. In general, the movie was not scary at all, except for this one particular scene. The scene took us all by surprise, and we all simultaneously jumped from our seats and screamed as loud as we could. It was hilarious!

Joking faces

One of my favorite memories from this year was pulling pranks with girls on my floor. One of my favorite pranks was when Morgan Daniels, Simone Pearson, Emily Rowden, Jackie Winkle, and I went to the second floor of Georgia Hall after everyone was in for the night and tied yarn from door to door down the whole hall. When the girls tried to open a door it just slammed back in their faces! The prank was really fun to do and funny to watch from the hallway. Not all the girls got to see it because it was all cut down before the morning, but for the few girls who did see it, it was hilarious.

Facing the unexpected

One day Carlie Moore and I were on our way from a campus parking lot to a choir rehearsal. We began running down the hill and all of the sudden I heard Carlie yell, "LAUREN!!!" When I looked, I saw her tumble down the hill. When I got to the bottom of the hill, I was crying from laughing so hard, but I thought Carlie was hurt because she landed on the pavement. When I found her, I saw that she had landed between two cars and that one of her legs was behind her head while the other one was propped up on a car. She was fine, and we began laughing uncontrollably. Once we had calmed down, I helped her up and went to find her shoe which had fallen off halfway down the hill. It was the funniest thing seeing her little body fold in half down the hill.

One time I was on my way to the same back parking lot with Mallory Carden, and we noticed that there was a raccoon searching through the dumpster. It was so cute, so we stopped to watch, but it hid from us behind the dumpster. We began to coax it to come out and finally it did. At first it started walking toward us at a steady pace, but then it broke out in a sprint and chased Mallory down the hill while I watched and laughed. We named the raccoon Penelope.

Men's Soccer

Ten countries working together as one

Trevecca's soccer program had an exciting ninth season. Two games that were highlights for the men were the 1-1 tie with Goshen College and the 2-1 overtime win against Spring Arbor College, the alma mater of Jeff Carr, the soccer coach. The team finished the season with three consecutive wins in conference play; the second game in that three-game stretch was an impressive two-overtime win against Cumberland University.

For the fourth time in University history the team advanced to the TranSouth Tournament, finishing sixth in a field of ten teams. The men had an overall record of 5-9-1 with a conference record of 4-5. A major honor for the team and one that communicates much about the spirit and attitude of the men was their receiving the TranSouth Champions of Character Team Award for the second consecutive year. This award is given to the team that has best demonstrated sportsmanship and character both on and off the field.

Several players had individual accomplishments. Mark Foster was a TranSouth Player of the Week. James Lambley was TranSouth Defensive Player of the Week three times, Region XI Player of the Week two times, and TranSouth Co-Freshman of the Year. Four players—Mark Foster, James Lambley, Calvin da Cunha, and Alex Lorenz—were named to the TranSouth All-Conference Second Team.

Gift Ndam, calm as usual, takes care of business on the field.

Women's Soccer

Overcoming obstacles with determination

Carissa Mott controls the ball as she heads down the field.

As soon as the first week of August rolled around, the women were on their way to school to prepare for the upcoming soccer season. They dedicated themselves to the sport, practicing three to four times daily out in the intense heat.

A few adjustments had to be made as the season began. First of all, the women had a new coach, Brett Armstrong, who brought a new spirit and a different perspective to the team. Second, the team started the season with only two subs on the bench, a situation which created the need to recruit. As the season progressed, the team added new players, an improvement which kept fresh bodies rotating in and out of the field and made it easier to keep up with the opponent and pull through with the victory.

In practice the women did several drills, trying to incorporate game-like situations. They also played small-sided games and split into offense and defense for position-specific drills. When it came time for game time, the women played a warm-up CD to get pumped up as they completed their warm-up routine. Throughout each game, the women pulled together and put teamwork into practice and gave their all.

Over the course of the season, the women all grew closer and overcame a lot of obstacles. They were determined to have a great season and to finish strong. They completed their season with an astonishing 6-0 win over Freed-Hardeman.

Volleyball

Teamwork produces a winning season

The Trevecca volleyball team advanced to the NAIA Region XI Tournament for the fifth time in school history and made it to the region semifinals, finishing the season with a 26-10 overall record and 13-5 in TranSouth play. The 26-wins record is the fourth highest season in school history, resulting in the seventh time head coach Scott Jones has produced a 20-win season. Brittney Ray was named to the NAIA All-Region-XI Team and also was tabbed to the TranSouth All-Tournament Team. Ray was joined on the All-TranSouth First Team by Kelly Huff, and Kimi Coffey was named to the second team. Coffey and Huff were named to the TranSouth Scholar-Athlete team along with Allie Gray, Gracie Silva, and Kaley Ward. Ray was named the Region-XI and TranSouth Player of the Week three times. Huff was named Region-XI Setter of the Week twice and received the TranSouth award on three occasions. Coffey was selected as the Region-XI and TranSouth Libero of the Week once during the season.

The team evidenced much talent, a fact that is proven by the many awards the individual players received. The dedicated players worked together as a team to finish the season with a winning record and a big win over Martin Methodist in the Region-XI Tournament before their final game of the season.

Brittney Ray hits the ball for a kill. Ray had 588 kills on the season.

Men's Basketball

Hard work produces another winning season

BACK ROW: Christopher Harris, Oliver Ong'ara, Collins Onyando, Dennis Miruka, Marcos Salvi, Jeremy Dixon, Brian Oduor

The men's basketball team had an outstanding season that included big wins over nationally ranked teams. Pre-conference-season wins over Illinois-Springfield, Simon Fraser, and Vorhees College gave the team confidence and started the men on an eight-game win streak. Before the season ended the team produced other exciting victories in games against Crichton College (pre-season nationally ranked #2), the University of the Cumberlands, Cumberland University, and Freed Hardeman. After losing twice to Martin Methodist, the team proved its mettle by defeating Martin in the semi-final game of the TranSouth Conference Tournament. The men made their third Sweet Sixteen appearance at the NAIA National Tournament, ending the season with a two-point loss to Georgetown.

Their positive performances earned team members significant awards. Josh Helton was named to the NAIA All-National Tournament Team. Josh and Collins Onyando earned All-American honorable mentions. Josh and Collins were also named to the TranSouth Athletic Conference (TSAC) First Team, and Jeremy Dixon was named to the TSAC All-Freshman Team. Christopher Harris was named NAIA Scholar-Athlete, and Adam Drake, Matthew Elliott, and Christopher Harris won TSAC Student-Athlete Awards. Matt Eliott won the Most Improved Player Award; Josh Helton and Collins Onyando were named Co-Most Valuable Players. Four members of the team earned places in the elite 1,000-Point Club during the 2007-2008 season: Josh Helton; Collins Onyando; Marcos Salvi; and Brian Oduor, who joined that group during his junior year. Brian also led the nation in field-goal percentage. In addition to these individual honors, the team led the NAIA in two categories: field-goal percentage and three-point percentage.

The win over Blue Mountain College on January 28, 2008, was a big win for Head Coach Sam Harris, his 400th win as a coach. This year Harris completed his eighth consecutive winning season and his fourth 20-win season.

Women's Basketball

Advanced to the National Championship Game!

The Trevecca Nazarene University women's basketball team seemed to have a stacked deck heading into this season. The team returned four all-conference performers in Mariska Reed, Kristin Archie, Jennifer Bognar, and Abbie Lawson.

The team produced an exciting season for the Lady Trojan fans, finishing the season with a 23-12 record and a trip to the NAIA National Tournament at Oman Arena, in Jackson, Tennessee.

In the NAIA's 32-team bracket for the 28th Annual NAIA Division-I Women's Basketball National Championship, Trevecca's women's team received one of four No. 6 seeds. At that tournament the Lady Trojans were victorious against Southern Nazarene University, Langston University, Loyola University, and Freed-Hardeman and made it to the final game of the tournament. With Trevecca fans cheering them on, the women fought valiantly against Vanguard University of California, but were defeated 72-59. All in all, the Lady Trojans had an impressive season.

When the team reunites for the 2008-2009 season, three will be missing. Seniors who graduated this year were Kristen Archie, Mariska Reed, and MyRanda Wright.

Christian Gibson, one of Trevecca's star players, races down the court.

What's a home basketball game without the cheerleaders? The cheerleaders proudly wear purple and white as they provide support for both the men's and women's basketball teams and show their school spirit. With every passing play, the team completes cheer after cheer, giving continuous encouragement to their team. They were especially successful in this effort when using crowd-responsive cheers. The cheerleaders would start cheers and the crowd would join in. The cheers of the Moore Maniacs could be heard all across the gym. They could even be heard loudly on the radio during some away games.

The cheerleaders' improvement was especially evident as they cheered and performed various stunts during breaks in the games. They executed never-before-seen stunts and demonstrated a higher level of talent than Trevecca has ever seen. The team put in a lot of hard work and effort this year in order to better the cheerleading program and to support the athletic teams.

This year's team was made up of ten talented individuals. The team was joined by a new mascot who helped cheer on the Trojans at every game.

Baseball

Determination and hard work pay off

The Trojan baseball team put forth a lot of hard work and effort to complete another successful season. Several of the men received awards, and a few records were broken this year. Steven Brown broke the record for pitching saves in a season and in a career. He had eight saves this season and has a total of 14 saves in his career. Several made the All-Conference First Team, including Cody Heggie (first baseman), Chris Lowe (outfielder), Marty Parks (outfielder), Brian Dirheimer (designated hitter), Nick Shoup (starting pitcher), and Steven Brown (relief pitcher). Those who made the All-Conference Second Team included Brett Thaler (catcher), Dylan Lynch (third baseman), Wade Angel (outfielder), and Wesley Griggs (pitcher). Dylan Lynch made the All-Conference Gold Glove Team for the second year in a row. Brett Thaler and Aaron Bree joined Lynch on the All-Conference Gold Glove Team for the first time this year.

The team clinched another TranSouth Conference Title but fell two runs short of winning the conference tournament; however, the men received an automatic bid to the NAIA Region XI Tournament.

Trevecca suffered a tough loss in the opening game of the NAIA Region XI Tournament against Campbellsville, but they kept themselves in the tournament by beating the University of the Cumberlands 14-5. The men had to face Campbellsville once again in the next game and ended their season with a close game only losing by one run.

A highlight of the season for the team was getting to play a game at Greer Stadium.

Trevecca's softball team had another record-breaking season. In the batting category, Brittiany Johnson broke the record for home runs and RBIs, and Chelsea Bailey broke the record for stolen bases and runs. In the pitching category, Brittiany Johnson broke the record for wins, wins-to-losses percentage, appearances, strike-outs, and innings pitched.

In addition to these broken records, the team made other astounding accomplishments this season. Kacey Coonce was named the TranSouth Player and Newcomer of the Year, Brittiany Johnson was named Pitcher of the Year for the third consecutive season, and Coach Ernie Reynolds was named the Coach of the Year for the second time in his four years at Trevecca. Reynolds has led the women to the conference title in each of his last four seasons. Kacey Coonce, Brittiany Johnson, Chelsea Bailey, and Megan Suggs made the TranSouth All-Conference First Team, and Ashley Camp and Karli Rush made the TranSouth All-Conference Second Team.

The Lady Trojans finished with another winning season, claiming the regular season conference title and the conference tournament championship. The ladies stayed strong throughout the NAIA World Series and only fell one run short of taking the national championship.

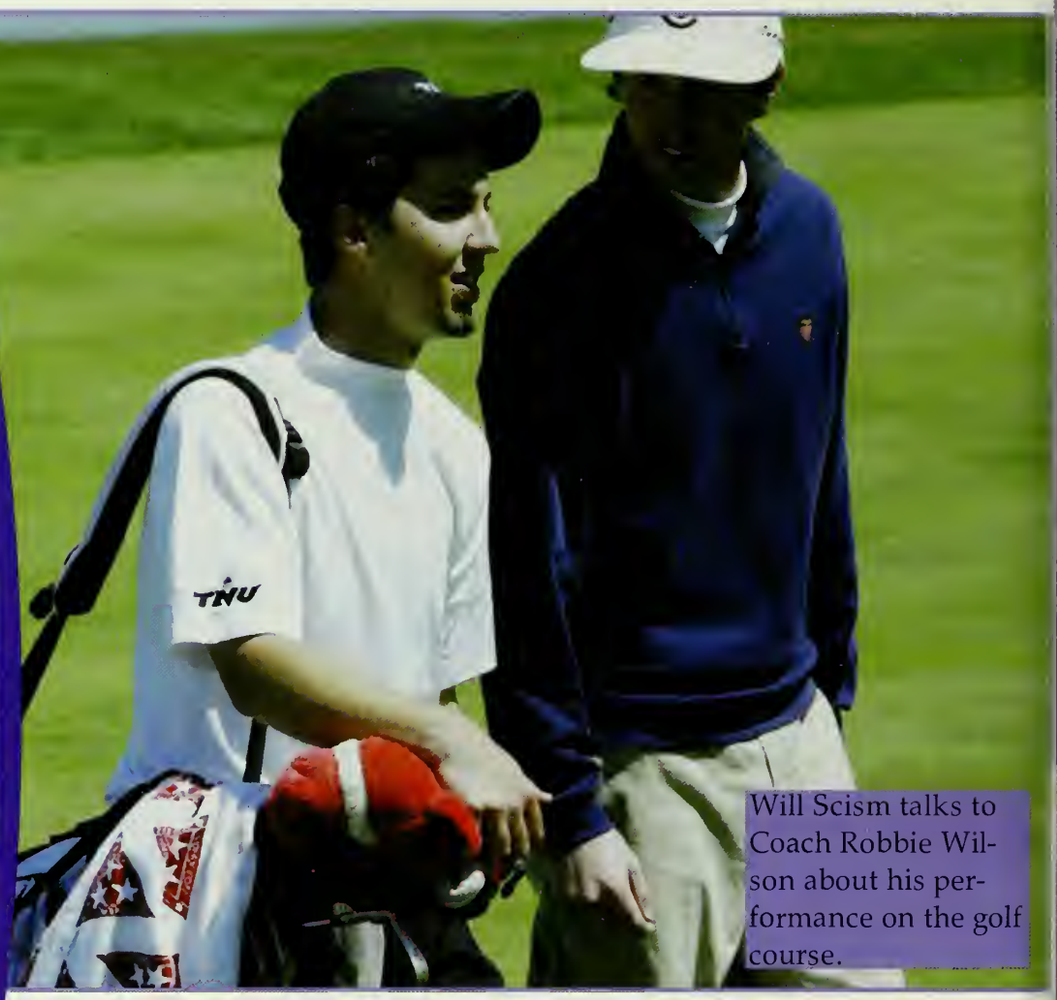
Men's Golf

Advanced to the NAIA Region XI Tournament

Trevecca's men's golf team advanced to the NAIA Region XI Tournament this season. After opening the season with a win over Martin Methodist in the TNU/MMC dual match, the team finished fifth of ten teams at the Scots Invitational in Batesville. Individually, Will Scism won the TNU/MMC dual match and finished fifth of 43 at the RedHawk Invitational and second at the TranSouth Tournament. Edward Yu had a strong showing with a fourth-place finish (of 58) at the Lyon Invitational.

The men had many great accomplishments throughout the season. Josh Fields, Clifton Smith, and Will Scism made the TranSouth Scholar Athlete team. Will Scism was named to the TranSouth All-Conference team after finishing second at the conference tournament.

Coach Robbie Wilson summed up the season saying, "This team will be remembered as the beginning of a new attitude for Trevecca Golf. We had more than half of our team as Freshmen this year and I look forward to watching everyone grow over the next few years. As we move into next season, this team will be remembered as the one that laid the foundation for the future of the program."



Will Scism talks to Coach Robbie Wilson about his performance on the golf course.

WOMEN'S GOLF: Michael Johnson, Alyssa Moe, Betsy Beaver, Ashley Meeks, Allison Durham, Brooke Dillehay

Rebuilding is generally not a word that coaches like to use because that means things have changed, but for women's golf coach Michael Johnson, 2007-08 turned out better than some might have expected.

After losing four seniors to graduation and another player who transferred to a university closer to home, the challenge of competing for a fourth consecutive conference championship was great. The team ended up with one returning player and three ladies new to TNU. Betsy Beaver was the individual medalist at last year's conference championship and turned in a solid sophomore season playing at the #1 position all year. Two transfers, Brooke Dillehay (JR) and Alyssa Moe (SO), showed flashes of brilliance and the lone freshman, Allison Durham, proved she was capable playing great golf as well.

In the end, the Lady Trojans won two tournaments, including the conference championship. They also finished runner-up in the Lyon College Piper Invitational. The schedule including prestigious invitations to nationally-ranked Berry College, Savannah College of Art and Design, and Lindsey Wilson College tournaments.

"I really didn't know for sure what to expect when the season started," said coach Johnson. "But even if we hadn't won the conference again, I would've still been proud of the effort the ladies put forth. Winning the TranSouth again was just really sweet."

This year's Trevecca's Intramural Association, directed by Nate Hill, had another great year. Football had the most participants with 250 students participating in 14 men's teams and nine powder puff teams. The White Warrior team won football for the third year in a row, and Puff This won powder puff. Support for football and powder puff was high—even with the cold weather. Basketball had ten A-league teams, ten B-league teams, and 11 co-ed teams. New sports leagues this year were co-ed softball, soccer, and wiffleball. New tournaments were held for racquetball, tennis, badminton, pool, ping pong, and yoga.

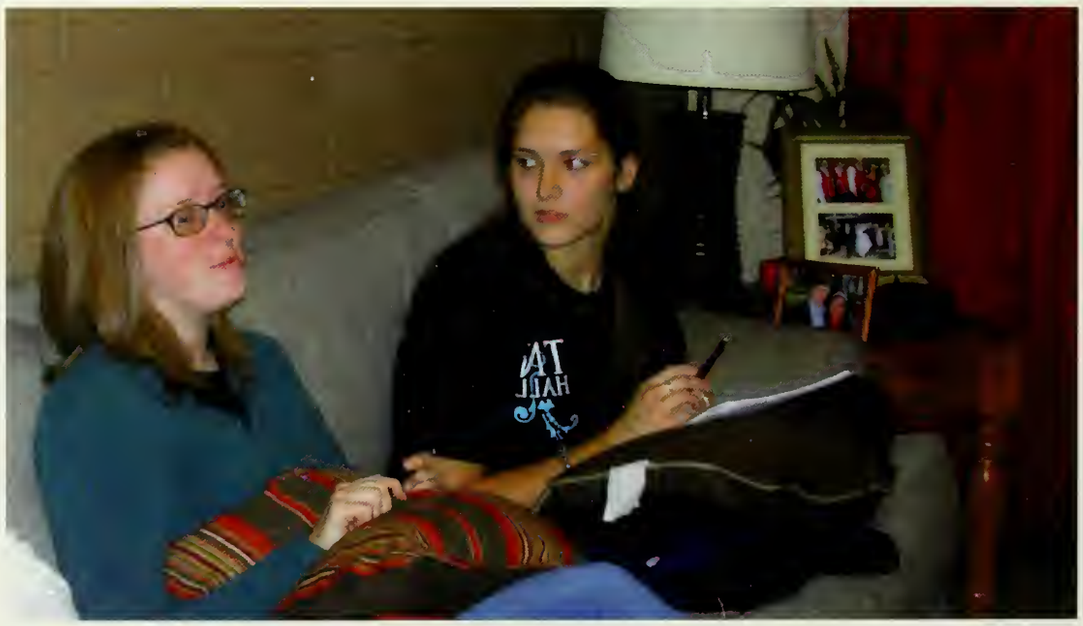
Win A Date with John Ford

Long before school began and the students arrived, Trevecca's resident assistants (RAs) and resident directors (RDs) were hard at work, preparing for the new school year. At the retreat at Deer Run, the RAs and RDs learned how to develop strong relationships, planned activities for the new year, and learned new ways to serve others.

Each year the RAs plan and direct activities within their respective dorms, activities that are designed to make each dorm a "positive and creative environment." RA-sponsored events, such as Win a Date with John Ford, Bowl-a-Rama, and the Brest Cancer Walk, help dorm residents make friends and adjust to dorm life.

The Resident Hall Association (RHA), a volunteer organization led by students, develops and directs activities that are open to all campus residents. Those events included Benson Brew, Corn Maze, Broom Hockey, and the Luau, and they exemplified RHA's commitment to "enrich" students lives and to "encourage interaction and communication" among students in all resident areas.



Tennesse RHA plans another hall activity for the fall semester.

Jenny Carden, Megan Horner, Laura Hemby, Andrea Fuller, Kim Warden, and Megan Sloan are excited about going through the corn maze, one of the RHA fall activities.

This year's Trevechoes' staff was composed of seven people. Editor Mike Kurtz worked with the assistant editor, the design editor, and four writers, who were expected to contribute three writings for each issue.

Mike Kurtz implemented some changes in the Trevechoes this year. He restructured the staff and allowed writers more freedom to write about multiple topics that interested them. Mike also stressed a new focus on quality. The goal was for each issue to be relevant to the reader and to be error-free.

This year's yearbook staff consisted of eight members with Rachel Brenneman as the editor and Kevin Wilkerson as the assistant editor. Rachel has been the first female yearbook editor since 2001 and helped give the Darda a "female touch." This year's theme was FACE IT, which was used to focus on Faith, Academics, Character, Experience, and Service. The Darda staff had a lot to live up to after last year's yearbook, and they surely worked hard to accomplish the task. Rachel began working on the yearbook during the summer. In the basement of Johnson Hall, she, along with the rest of the staff, put countless hours and dedication into the production of the2008 Darda.

This year's SGA participated in an all-school service project at Phases, a women's half way house, in the fall and helped build a house with Habit for Humanity in the spring. Each class participated in a community service project, helping move furniture, cleaning a neighbor's property, or helping Room in the Inn. SGA wanted this year to be focused more on service and student leadership than it had been in the previous year. Even with 37 members, nine on the executive council and seven for each class, there was always plenty of work to do. The SGA members are constantly in their offices, preparing for events. SGA also mediates between the students and administration on issues, such as having the library extend its hours.

Trevecca music students add to the campus atmosphere by their participation in musical ensembles. Music students who are also accomplished instrumentalists contribute to campus life through the Trevecca Wind Ensemble, the Pep Band, the T-Naz Jazz, and the Trevecca Symphony Orchestra.

David Diehl, chair of the music division, directed the Wind Ensemble, Pep Band, and T-Naz Jazz. Hank Spaulding, a student, also served as director of the Pep Band. The music from the Pep Band added greatly to the fan excitement and enjoyment at home basketball games.

Wind Ensemble and T-Naz Jazz had a weekend retreat at Clarksville, Tennessee, in the fall. They also traveled to Florida with Covenant Choir and presented concerts at several churches. These two groups were joined by the Pep Band and campus vocal groups for a concert during TNT@TNU.

Trevecca Symphony Orchestra, conducted by music professor Timothy Cierpke, presented its Annual Fall Concert in the Quad, its spring concert with vocal ensembles, and other events through the year.

Treble Tones and Covenant Choir were Trevecca's choirs this year. Professor Renita Koehn was the conductor for Covenant Choir. This year Covenant Choir joined Wind Ensemble and T-Naz Jazz on a trip to Florida during winter retreat. They also traveled to various churches across the Southeast Region. Treble Tones, directed by Kim Wonders, is comprised of women, who are selected by audition. They sing various styles of music, including Latin, hymns, and contemporary songs. In November they performed at Rock City for the Festival of Lights. They also performed at various churches Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia.

The 2007- 2008 Madriglians, directed by Timothy Cierpke, had 24 members. This year the Mads preformed at several churches as well as at "Serenade in Time" with the Trevecca Symphony Orchestra in the fall and the Madrigal Dinner in the spring. This year's Madrigal Dinner, "Mayhem in Madhatten," used comic book characters plus a few that the Mads crafted themselves, such as the Wonder Twins, Rhymer, and Water Guy. The dinner theater featured humor and an unexpected story line. During the summer the Mads toured Italy, Austria, Czech Republic, Germany, France, and Great Britain on their Fifth European Choral Tour.

The first drama production of the year by the Department of Communication Studies and the Cultural Arts Series was performed during Homecoming week. Trevecca showed off its talent for drama at "Homecoming on the Hill." The drama team began preparing during the summer with auditions and worked countless hours prior to the opening performance. James Lapine's play combined fairytales—from "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Cinderella" to "Little Red Riding Hood" and many more—and intertwined them into one story. This two-act play kept the audience's attention and left viewers wondering what would happen next. The fall production of Into The Woods was a tremendous hit.

The spring drama for 2008, Rogers and Hammerstein's Oklahoma! was directed by Kimberly Overstreet. The cast did an excellent job of portraying the actors and making the play come alive for the audience. Oklahoma! tells the story of Curly romancing Laurey in the early 1900s. Their relationship is threatened by Jud, the farmhand, who also loves Laurey. Will and Ado's love is also threatened when Ado cannot seem to decide which man she wants. The audience's attention was easily captivated by Curly and Laurey and was highly amused by Ado and many of the other characters. The stage was wonderfully crafted and designed, with the yellow house, hay bale, and the smoke house.

Always having fun

This year's public relations groups were busy, keeping the road hot traveling across the Southeast to lead worship at camps. Both Refuge and Everpraise are comprised of very diverse and unique individuals with amazing talents.

It did not take long for Refuge to hit the road. After about a week of practice and with an almost completely new group of members, they were on their way to Alabama South's Refuel. One of Refuge's major focuses is undergraduate recruitment. They continue to take on the worship band format with their own instrumentalists and vocalists.

Everpraise kept most of its members from the previous year. They continued to visit churches where they performed on Saturday and/or Sunday. Also, Everpraise visited camps and retreats, where they functioned as the singing group and represented Trevecca for recruitment. Both groups joined together for TNT at TNU and other events in order to use their talent for ministry.

Each year a group of Trevecca students commit their summer vacation to ministry through summer ministry teams (SMT). Students submit applications and participate in an interview process before they are selected. Following their training sessions, the team travels the Southeast, visiting church camps where they provide the worship music and lead activities and games for campers.

Working with summer ministry teams gives students a way to show Christ's love, to share about Trevecca, and to become acquainted with young people who may be prospective Trevecca students. Summers spent in SMT produce new friendships, happy memories, new contacts, and the knowledge that one's work has been meaningful.

Jessi,

What a joy it has been watching you turn into this beautiful woman. We're all so proud of your achievement. Love you, baby.

Mama, Dad, and Joshua

Caleb Haynes

To our favorite son, Caleb

You can finally stop wagging books around. We are so proud of you!

Love, Mom and Dad

Brandon Rarig

Son, it's all good. Congratulations and lots of love to you and Rachel. May your lives be filled with many magic moments.

Love, Mom and Dad

Ben Birdwell

We celebrate with you! Congrats!

Mom, Dad, Grant, Alanna, and Savannah

"Be strong . . .for the Lord . . . is with thee." Joshua 1:9

Aaron Crum

Aaron,

Wasn't it just yesterday we were sending you off to first grade? You've always made us proud! Congratulations and love from

Mom, Dad, and Adam

Kristi Dettra

Congratulations to Aunt Kristi. We love you.
Nathan, Raeanne, and Trey

jarod morgan

Dear Jarod,
The business world had better watch out. You've always had a plan. May God bless you in this new phase of your life.

Love always, Mom and Dad

Danielle Queener

Danielle, Indeed you are our glory and joy.
(I. Thess. 2:20)

Love, Mom, Dad, and Dana

Jeremey Veal

You have run a valiant race. Your diploma tells the story—Your trophy touched by grace. To God goes all the glory.

We're proud. We love you.
Grandpa and Grandma Fenno

Good Job John Eric!

We're proud of you!

Much Love,

New Clubs

New Clubs at Trevecca included the Environmental Sustainability Association and the Men's Service Society. The Environmental Sustainability Association, led by Liz Whiting, did much to point the campus in the direction of being a green campus. The club's biggest contribution was its addition of a recycling program on campus. The Men's Service Society was created to develop young men into servant leaders within their community. The members of this club did several projects to help others on and off Trevecca's campus.

Members not pictured: Josh Fields, Josh Barnhouse, Michael Hendricks, Caleb Haynes, Michael Sweigard, Eric Crawford, and sponsor Jon Burch

For many of you this 2007-2008 school year has marked the end of your college career. Now it's time for you to go out into the world and FACE IT whether you are ready for it or not. For the rest of you, we have a few more years left to FACE, but those years will come and go before we know it. Let's make the most of these years while we have them and make memories, friendships, and relationships that will last forever. Thank you for letting me serve you all as I help make your memories last a lifetime.

General Information
The 2008 Darda was printed by Herff Jones, Inc., who published 650 copies of this 180-page yearbook. Mary Harris was our representative.

Student photographs were taken by Elizabeth Streight. Candids were taken by Elizabeth Streight and the Darda staff. Copy for the yearbook as written by the Darda staff and edited by yearbook sponsor Jan Greathouse. All pages were produced on Dell computers using Adobe Photoshop CS2 and InDesign CS2.

Thank you faculty, staff, and students for your support of the staff and the 2008 Darda.
